SMA-SGEA Conference on Graduate Medical Education

April 7, 2005

ADAM'S MARK HOTEL in WINSTON-SALEM, NC

The second annual SMA-SGEA Conference on Graduate Medical Education is a unique forum for representatives from the Southern Medical Association (SMA) and members of the Southern Group on Educational Affairs (SGEA) to collaborate and share information in an ongoing effort to help residency programs meet the ACGME's Six Competencies and improve graduate medical education.

7:30 to 8:30 Continental Breakfast

8:30 to 8:45 Welcome from SMA and SGEA

Charles 'Bo' Farmer, MD — President of SMA
Franklin Medio, PhD — Chair, GME Section of SGEA

8:45 to 10:00 Using a Healthcare Matrix to Assess Patient Care in Terms of Aims for Improvement and Core Competencies

Doris Quinn, PhD John Bingham, MHA
Vanderbilt University Medical Center

The Healthcare Matrix is an innovative instrument for GME administrators and educators. It is a unique tool enabling program directors and faculty to document teaching the ACGME's Six Competencies while demonstrating the impact of these teaching efforts on patient care.

10:00 to 10:15 BREAK

10:15 to 12:00 The LIFE Curriculum: Learning to Address Impairment and Fatigue to Enhance Patient Safety

Kathryn Andolsek, MD — Duke University Medical Center
Robert Cefalo, MD, PhD — UNC Health Care

Despite recent improvements in residency education, GME remains a rigorous, demanding experience. The LIFE curriculum helps program directors, faculty and residents develop effective strategies to prevent problems as well as to intervene when problems occur.

12:00 to 1:15 Luncheon Address American Medicine vs. American Healthcare

Jean Edwards Holt, MD, MHA — Past-President of SMA

1:15 to 2:30 Improving the Effectiveness of Your "Internal Review" Process

Margie Kleppick — Partners in Medical Education, Pittsburgh
John Potts, III, MD — University of Texas Houston Medical School

The sponsoring institution's "internal review" of residency programs is becoming increasingly more important. This session will focus on creating a thorough and rigorous internal review process, developing a group of effective reviewers, and monitoring the entire review process.

2:30 to 2:45 BREAK

2:45 to 4:00 Handling the Resident in Difficulty: Three Perspectives across the Institution

Franklin Medio, PhD — Medical University of South Carolina
Benjamin Clyburn, MD — Medical University of South Carolina
Grayson Wheatley, MD — Arizona Heart Institute

When residents exhibit deficiencies in clinical performance, signs of impairment and/or patterns of unacceptable or unprofessional behavior, they present a challenge to administrators, directors, faculty and colleagues. A Designated Institutional Official, a Program Director and a Chief Resident will provide strategies to handle these situations to ensure residents are treated fairly.

4:00 to 5:00 Welcome and Opening Address of the 2005 SGEA Meeting

Jordan Cohen, MD — President, Association of American Medical College

All SMA-SGEA Conference participants are invited to attend Dr. Cohen's lecture.

There is no registration fee for this conference. To register go to http://www.sma.org/sgea_intro.cfm
