

The Changing Organization of Biomedical Research: An AAMC Project on Centers and Institutes

Related Literature

Alpert D. The role and structure of interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary research centers. Address to the 9th Annual Meeting of the Council of Graduate Schools in the U.S. Washington, DC: December 4-6, 1969.

Anderson GL. Organizational diversity. In Smart JC, Montgomery JR. Examining Departmental Management. New Directions for Institutional Research, No. 10 (Summer 1976): 1-20.

Cravens DW, Heathington, Kenneth, Mundy R. Organizing for Interdisciplinary research in a university setting. Society of Research Administrators Journal. Winter 1976;8:7-14.
Duryea ED. Evolution of university organization. In Perkins JA. The University as an Organization. New York: McGraw Hill, 1973: 55-77.

Crist TB, et al. (2003, December 15). Centers, institutes, and the future of clinical departments: Part II. American Journal of Medicine 115: 745-7.

Emmert MA. Organized Research Units and General Administration: The Promise and the Problems of Marginality. Center for Governmental Studies: Northern Illinois University, 1985.

Friedman RC. The Continuing Saga of Institutes and Centers. University Park, PA: PSU Center for the Study of Higher Education, 1977.

Friedman RS, Friedman RC. Sponsorship, Organization and Program Change at 100 Universities. University Park, Pa: PSU Center for the Study of Higher Education, 1986.
Friedman RS, Friedman RC. Managing the organized research unit. Educational Record, 1984;65:27-30.

Friedman RS, Friedman RC. The role of university organized research units in academic science. University Park, Pa: PSU Center for the Study of Higher Education, 1982.

Gabriel BA. New biomedical research centers cut across traditional departmental boundaries. AAMC Reporter, June 2001:8-9.

Galbreath, A.D. (2004, Winter). The center of the issue: Structure of centers and institutes within academic medicine. Alliance for Academic Internal Medicine Insight. Retrieved from <http://www.im.org/AAIM/Pubs/Insight/Winter2004/page6.pdf>.

Geiger RL. Organized research units: Their role in the development of university research. Journal of Higher Education. 1990; 61:1-19.

Hays SW. From adhococracy to order: Organizational design for higher education research and service. Research Management Review. Fall 1991;5:1-18.

Ibrahim, T, et al. (2003). Centers, institutes, and the future of the clinical department: Part 1. American Journal of Medicine 115, 337-341.

Ikenberry SO, Friedman RC. Beyond Academic Departments. San Francisco, CA: Jossey Bass, 1972.

Kruytbosch CE, Messinger S. Unequal Peers: The situation of researchers and Berkeley. American Behavioral Scientist. May/June 1968;11:33-43.

Rogers EM, et al. Technology Transfer from university-based research centers: The University of New Mexico experience. Journal of Higher Education. Nov/Dec 1999;70:687-705.

Rossi PH. Researchers, scholars and policy makers: The politics of large-scale research. Daedalus. 1964;93:1142-61.

Rubin ER, Lindeman LM. Trends in the Research Enterprise of Academic Health Centers. Washington, DC: Association of Academic Health Centers, 2001.

Sproull RL, Hall HT. Multidisciplinary Research and Education Programs in Universities: Making Them Work. Washington DC: Government-University-Industry Research Roundtable, 1987.

Stahler GJ, Tash WR. Centers and institutes in the research university: issues, problems, and prospects. Journal of Higher Education. 1994;65:540-554.

Teich AH. Research Centers and Non-Faculty Researchers: A New Academic Role. In Phillips DI, Shen BSP (eds). Research in the Age of the Steady-State University, 1982.