2004
WOMEN IN MEDICINE
LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT AWARD

GOAL OF AWARD: To recognize an individual or a Women in Medicine Organization for outstanding contributions to develop women leaders in academic medicine.

AWARD: One free tuition to AAMC's WIM Early-Career and Mid-Career Professional Development Seminar and an engraved plaque to be presented at the WLO Caucus on November 7, 2004 in Boston, MA at the AAMC's 2004 Annual Meeting.

CRITERIA: Any member of the academic medical community may be nominated. The selection process will look for evidence of substantial, innovative and far-reaching institutional and/or national contributions to:

- Improve the educational and professional environment for women in academic medicine;
- Enhance the development of women faculty into positions of greater leadership, and/or;
- Nurture students in their academic career development.

NOMINATION AND SELECTION PROCESSES:

Any AAMC constituent (group or individual) may nominate one person per year for this award (nominating form attached). An individual nominated last year may be re-nominated without requested back-up; simply attach an explanatory note to the nomination form. The WIM Coordinating Committee (attached) will score the nominations received and make the final selection.
