Welcome!

Your participation in the Graduation Questionnaire is an important way to provide feedback to improve medical education and student support services at your medical school. The questionnaire is a primary source of data on clinical training effectiveness, specialty and career plans, financial aid and student wellness.

After the survey closes, the AAMC will provide reports that aggregate results at the school level. These results are compared to national aggregated responses to benchmark how your school is performing in certain critical areas. The AAMC also uses these responses to provide information to support advocacy efforts for medical education.

Thank you,

David J. Skorton, MD

Important Information about the Graduation Questionnaire (GQ)

The AAMC Medical School Graduation Questionnaire (GQ) seeks information from graduating medical students to help medical schools benchmark and improve their medical education programs. The information is also used for research on national trends in medical education and by the Liaison Committee on Medical Education (LCME), the accrediting authority for programs leading to the MD degree in U.S. medical schools. The GQ asks your opinions about the student services and educational programs at your school, your preparation for residency, your education financing, and your career aspirations. The GQ also asks questions aimed at understanding the learning environment at your medical school. In addition, the GQ gives you the opportunity to inform your medical school about specific program areas that are strong or in need of improvement, as well as how the COVID-19 pandemic has impacted your medical school experiences and preparation for your career as a physician. The GQ will take approximately 35 to 50 minutes to complete.

Participation Is Voluntary

Participation in the GQ is voluntary. You have the right not to answer any question or set of questions. To help ensure participation is voluntary, the AAMC will not inform medical schools which students have begun or completed the GQ. If you believe you are being coerced into participation, contact the AAMC Office of Human Subjects Research Protection by email (humansubjects@aamc.org). Your medical school has been informed of regulations and guidelines regarding the administration of the GQ. By encouraging your participation, your medical school agrees to this protocol.

Confidentiality Statement

The data collected in the GQ are classified as confidential. Confidential data are data that may not be released with individual identification, except with permission. (Your agreement to participate in the GQ is not considered to be permission to release your identified responses.) The AAMC takes extensive measures to ensure the security of the data and the confidentiality of the responses. The responses you provide on the GQ are retained by the AAMC in a secure confidential database to which only a small number of designated AAMC staff has access.

Benefits and Risks of Participation

Benefits of Participation: By participating, you will be contributing to medical education research, national benchmarking, and the improvement of medical education programs.

Risks of Participation: This data collection is considered to be minimal risk. If individually identified data were made public, it could prove embarrassing.

How Responses are Used

Medical schools receive GQ data in reports that aggregate responses at the national, medical school, and (where applicable) campus levels. On occasion, for the purpose of conducting further studies to improve their programs, schools may request a de-identified file of individual responses. The AAMC reduces the probability of connecting responses to specific individuals by not providing information where the small number of respondents in a specific category would allow individuals to be reasonably identified. Additionally, the AAMC may provide medical schools and AAMC or other medical education researchers a file of de-identified individual responses, in which your GQ responses may have been linked with information from other AAMC databases, without your additional informed consent. Those receiving such de-identified files will be required to agree to terms that outline how the data may be used and for how long.

Comments you write about where your school's programs have strengths or areas in need of improvement will be provided to your medical school verbatim. The verbatim responses will not be linked to your identity and will not be linked to GQ data other than the campus location to which your school has assigned you. In responding to these essay-type questions, you should not provide self-identifying information unless you intend to make your identity known. Your responses to questions about negative behaviors or experiences during medical school might be sensitive. Because of this they will be released to schools only in a form aggregated at the medical school or campus level.

This data collection activity has been reviewed according to AAMC policies and procedures and its Institutional Review Board.

Contact Information

If you have any questions about your rights as a participant, contact the AAMC Office of Human Subjects Research Protection by email (humansubjects@aamc.org). If you have any technical questions about the GQ, contact GQ staff by email (GQ@aamc.org) or telephone (202-862-6151).
