2022 CFAS Spring Meeting: Key Takeaways

- Overall successful meeting and program
- You miss being with each other in person, but you still liked the virtual meeting
- Newer reps were especially satisfied
- More than half of the post-meeting survey respondents were junior reps
- CFAS reps feel like they are part of a community that collaborates on problem solving

2022 CFAS Spring Meeting: Key Takeaways

- Nearly 80 percent of survey respondents felt the plenary topics were relevant and timely
- Attendees really like the “Ignite” format and the opportunity to share stories
- Attendees loved hearing about CFAS business and the activity of the council
- Attendees really loved learning about the leadership journey of faculty who became deans

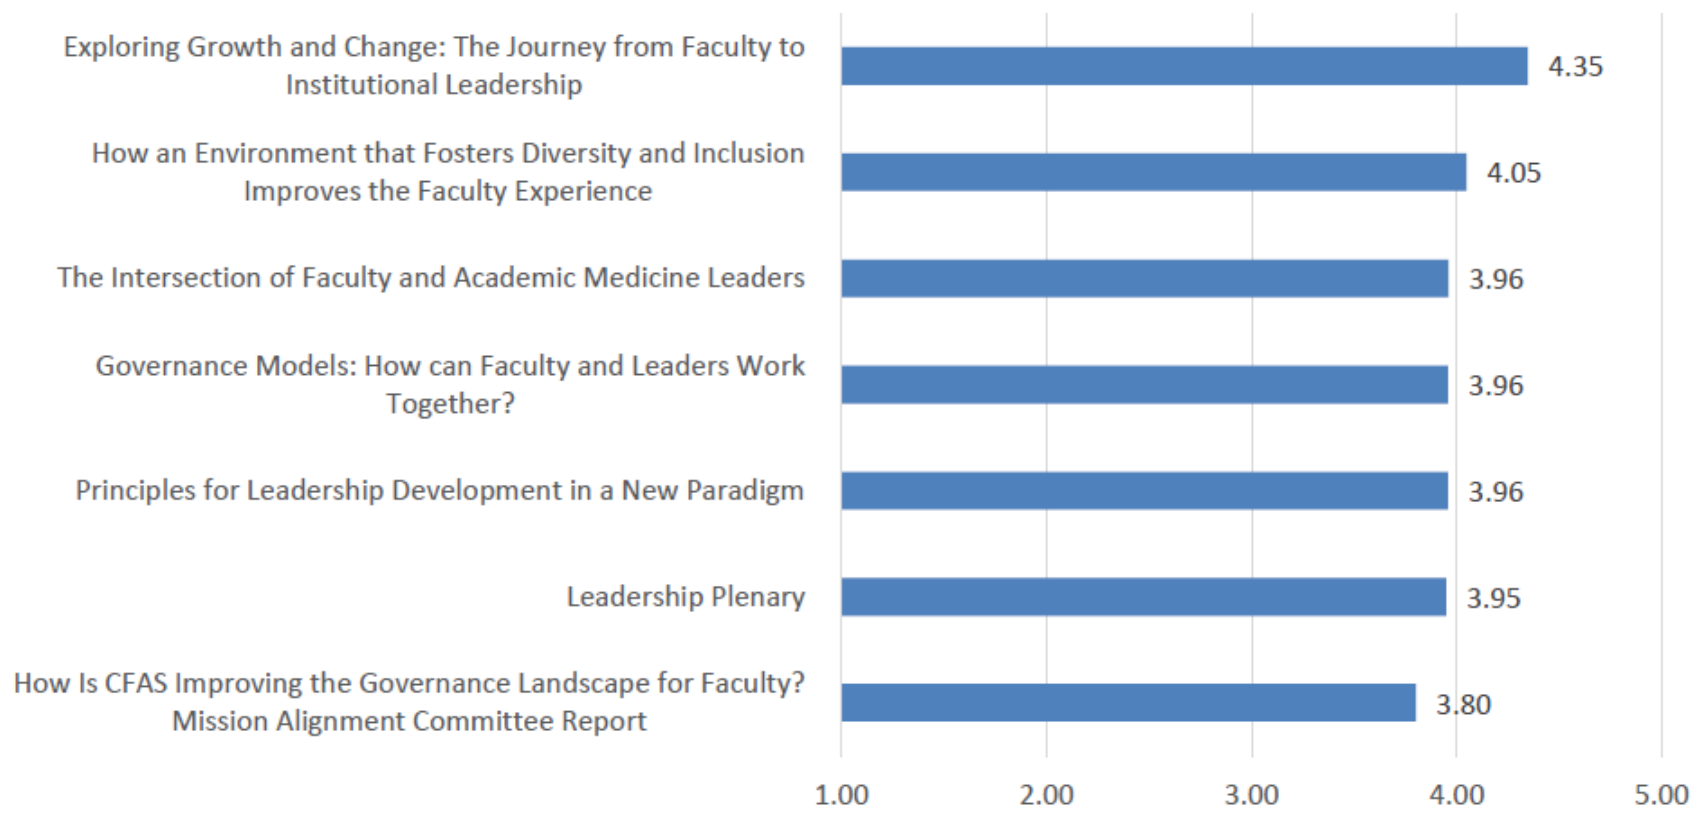

You Were Overall Satisfied...

(where 5=strongly agree, 4=agree, 3=neutral, 2=disagree, 1=strongly disagree)

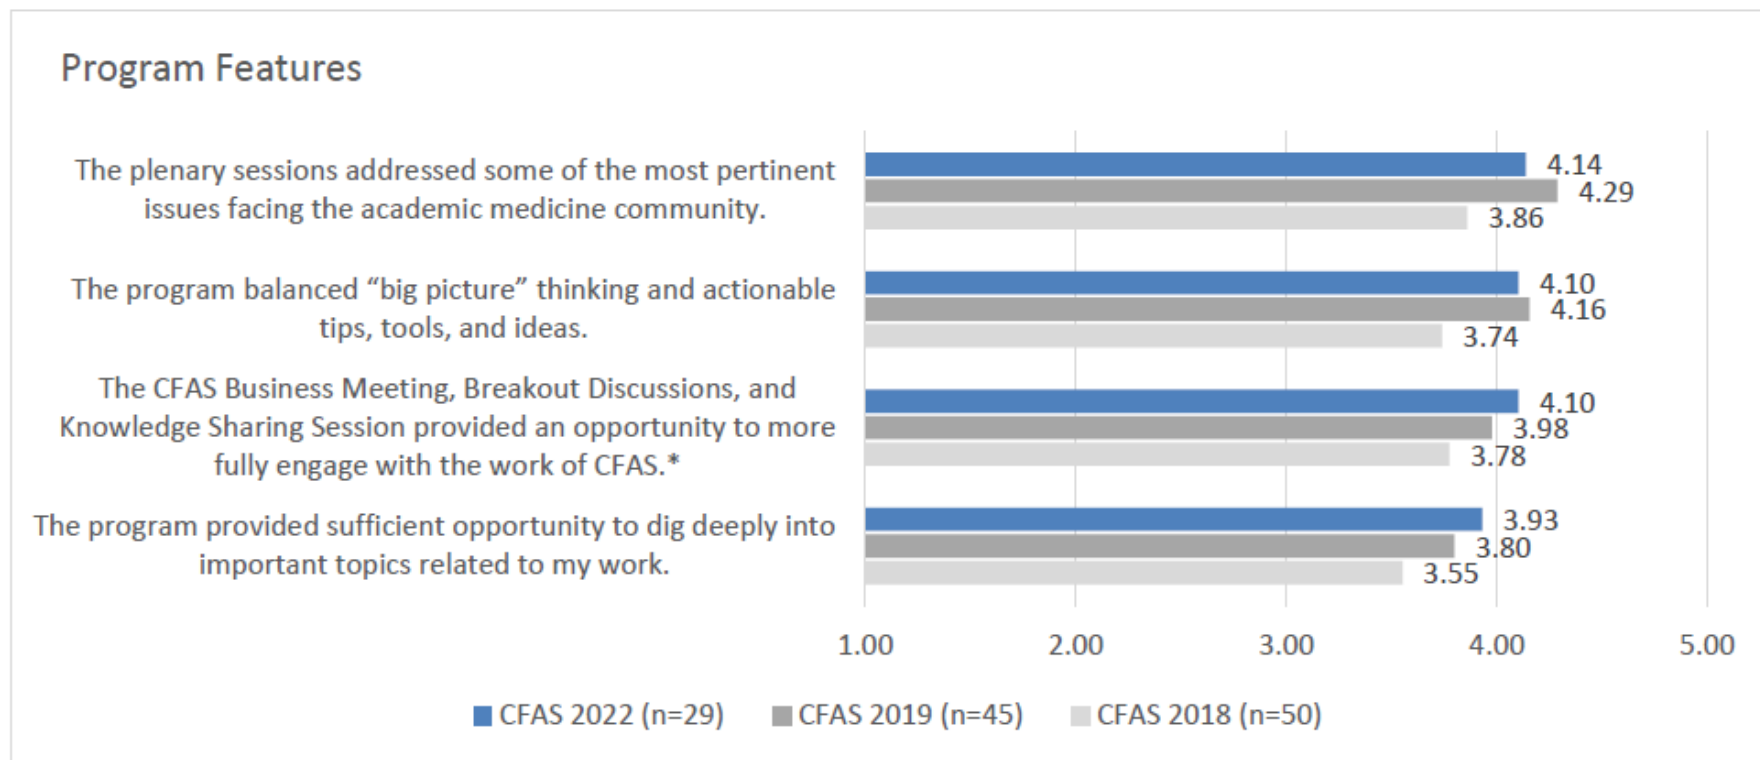

And You Liked Hearing from Leaders...

Overall Quality: Plenary Sessions

(where 5=excellent, 4=very good, 3=good, 2=fair, 1=poor)

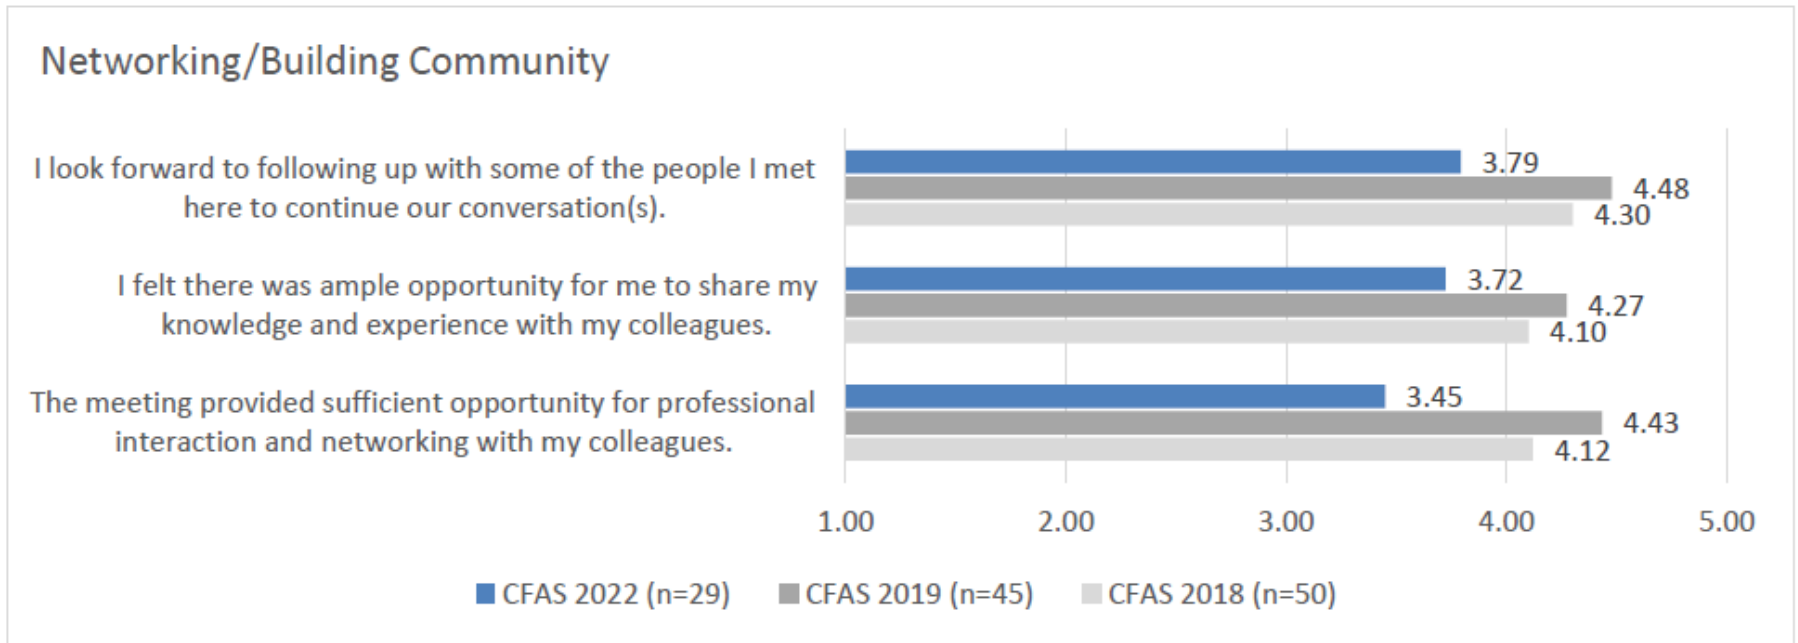

And the Topics We Covered...

(where 5=strongly agree, 4=agree, 3=neutral, 2=disagree, 1=strongly disagree)

*In 2018 and 2019, the question was: The CFAS Business Luncheon provided an opportunity to more fully engage with the work of CFAS.

But You Miss Being Together...

(where 5=strongly agree, 4=agree, 3=neutral, 2=disagree, 1=strongly disagree)

...And We'll Fix that at LSL

The Nov. 11-15 AAMC Learn Serve Lead Annual Meeting will have ample CFAS Programming –

- In-Person CFAS committee meetings
- CFAS receptions and breakfasts
- New rep orientation
- CFAS Business Meeting
- Knowledge sharing session
- At least 13 main-program breakouts originating with CFAS ideas featuring CFAS speakers

Join Us in Nashville in November!
