AAMC Bundled Payments for Care Improvement Advanced Collaborative

The AAMC has established a collaborative group to support academic medical centers (AMCs) in the implementation of the Center for Medicare and Medicaid Innovation’s (CMMI) Bundled Payments for Care Improvement Advanced (BPCI A) initiative. Through the group, the AAMC provides proactive advocacy support, policy interpretation, and education on the program’s rules and methodology and facilitates the sharing of best practices with institutions that are participating in the BPCI A initiative. The AAMC is also partnering with DataGen and Singletrack Analytics for data management support.

Services for the AAMC BPCI A Collaborative include expertise in the following areas:

- Data Management and Analysis
  - Assessment of clinical and financial risks and opportunities through data analysis, including training in interpreting and manipulating the data.

- Policy Interpretation
  - Analysis of BPCI A policies and changes to determine the impact on AMCs and to inform their participation in BPCI A through education, policy papers, and practical tools for implementing the program.
  - Access to tools and clarification of questions related to policy and programmatic changes.

- Advocacy Support
  - Support AMCs through regular communication with the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) to clarify policies and promote programmatic changes to enable success.
  - Collaborate with other organizations to harness policy and clinical expertise to build compelling arguments as the BPCI A program is implemented.

- Shared Learnings and Best Practices
  - Facilitate monthly webinars and networking opportunities with other members of the collaborative.

- Tool and Resource Development
  - Receive a bundled payment program project plan template, BPCI A data consultations, and access to more than 50 archived webinars on topics related to bundled payments.

For all service and contract questions regarding the BPCI A Collaborative, email aamcbundledpayments@aamc.org.